MEET THE TRIO

Three friends, one cabin on the lake

Molly, Remi and Greta met on the same college dock one June and never stopped showing up for each other. Summers are swims and boat days, autumns are leaf piles and cider, and winters are snowmen and flour-covered kitchens.

Campfire, late August. Fireflies, s'mores and the stories they still tell.

Molly

5'5"

The heart of the group. Warm, freckled and quick to laugh; she plans the sunrise paddles.

Remi

5'1"

The spark. Small, fearless and always first off the end of the dock.

Greta

5'7"

The anchor. Steady and sunny; up at dawn with an oar in her hands.

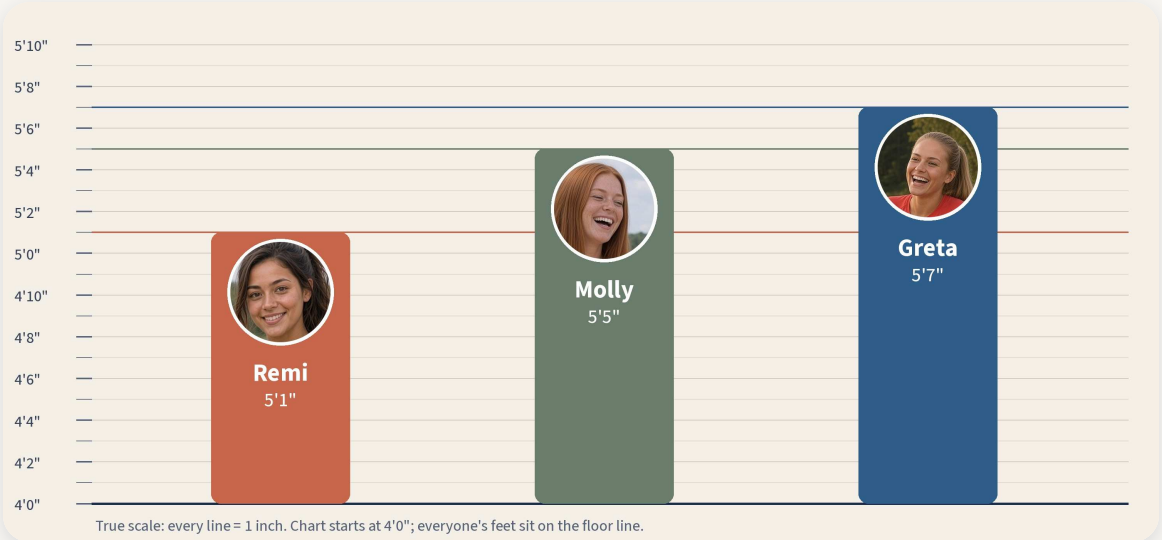
SIDE BY SIDE

How the trio measures up



True scale: every line = 1 inch. Chart starts at 4'0"; everyone's feet sit on the floor line.

The porch post. Every summer they check the marks: Remi at 5'1", Molly at 5'5", Greta at 5'7".

SUMMER

Feet in the lake

“Last one in buys the ice cream.”

Long July afternoons on the end of the dock: Greta in red, Remi in yellow, Molly in sky blue, kicking up splashes and arguing about who swam furthest. The water is warm, the dock is short, and nobody wants to go in for dinner.

THE DUOS · MOLLY & REMI

The sunshine pair

Sunset rocks. Flex check.

MOLLY & REMI

Best friends since the first week of college.

Molly is the planner and Remi is the plan-breaker, and somehow it always works.

Beach break. Watermelon, no napkins.

FOUR INCHES APART

The top of Remi's head lines up with Molly's eyes.

She calls it “fun-sized”, and she would like that on the record.

LAKE DAYS

Swim, then row

Golden hour swim. Molly sits on the dock with her toes in the lake while Remi and Greta tread water by the ladder.

The green rowboat. Greta rows, Molly steers, Remi supervises.

THE DUOS · REMI & GRETA

Tallest and smallest

The height check. Greta's favourite joke.

REMI & GRETA

Six inches apart and completely equal in volume.

Greta is the morning runner; Remi is the one who insists on racing her.

Dawn on the lake road. High five at the finish.

SUNRISE RUN

Every lap ends in a high five.

Greta sets the pace, Remi sets the finish line, and both claim the win.

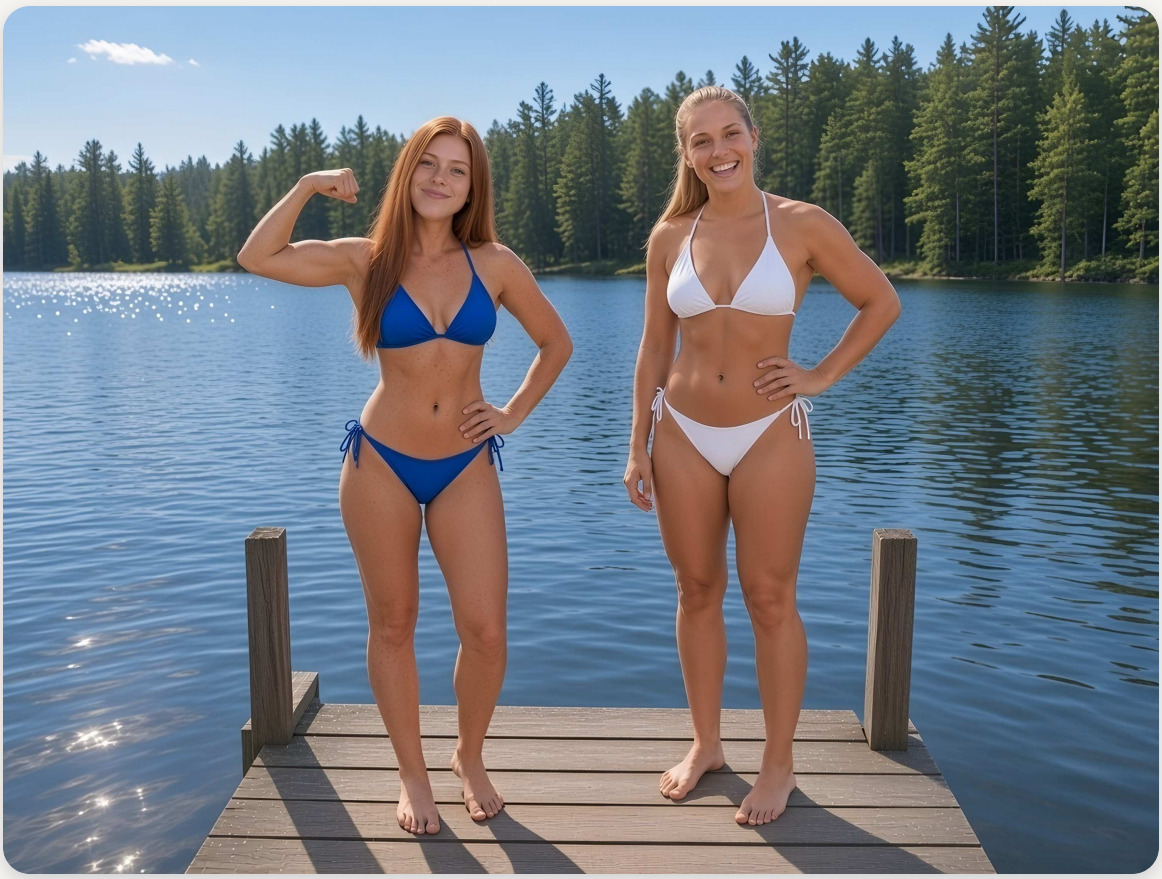
THE DUOS · MOLLY & GRETA

Calm water



Midday dock. Sun-warm boards and a long, lazy swim.

Sunrise stretch. Tree pose, mostly.

MOLLY & GRETA

“Two inches and zero wobbles. Well, almost.”

The early risers. Greta brings the coffee, Molly brings the yoga mats, and the lake is still glass-flat when they start.

AUTUMN

Leaf piles and cider

October at the cabin. The leaf pile never survives the first throw.

WINTER

Snow days

First snow. Puffers zipped, cheeks pink, nobody ready to go inside.

Cookie night. More flour on Remi than in the dough.

SPRING

Back where it started

Lilac picnic. Strawberries, a good book and the first warm day of the year.
